HEMEROCALLIS LIST 1950

Hemerocallis (Daylilies) are receiving more attention each year. They are fast becoming the most important and preferred perennial. This increased popularity is due to the many beautiful colors and characteristics now available. The color range has been so widened that it includes the palest yellows and deepest golds; pink, rose, maroon and purple. Much interest and variety is found in the size of the bloom which ranges from 2 to 9 inches and each variety displays its own particular characteristic form. The culture of Hemerocallis is simple: ample growing space, good garden soil with one yearly feeding and adequate water at blooming time. If you are not familiar with this "old flower with a new dress", grow them and you will be more than pleased.

TIME TO PLANT: Early Spring—Aug. Sept. Oct.

We have many more Hemerocallis not listed this year due to having only a small amount of stock of these newer ones. Please do not hesitate to write us if there is a variety you want not listed, and if we do not have it, we will help you find it. We have the largest collection of Hemerocallis in the state of Alabama, and are endeavoring to put on display the newest Hemerocallis from all sections of our country. We invite you to visit our garden and see these new lilies. The peak of the blooming season in Birmingham is June 5-June 20. Plan to visit us several times in order to see the varieties that bloom at different time.

JOIN the Hemerocallis Society, $3.00 per year. Valuable yearbook and news letters. Send dues to Mrs. Pearl Sherwood, (Sec. Treas.), Atlantic, Iowa.
